From the President's Corner

I'm looking forward to seeing everyone at our May meeting. Spring has now arrived. I've been having fun eating outdoors, beading and reading; but Charles and I have been busy. While I was in Florida, he broke my oven door. I asked him to clean between the glass doors. He didn't look online for instructions and started by taking off the oven door. While doing that he bent a part so the repairman told him it would be cheaper to buy a new oven than repair mine. So I've been busy looking at new stoves. As usual, what I want I can't afford and what I can afford, I don't want. Common problem I know.

At the same time, we've been painting. I never knew painting was so difficult. I thought I was in good shape, but it looks like maybe not. It took two days of prep, then two days painting, then two days to put our house back together. But now the walls are a blue gray – Storm Cloud – and match our floor. I still must paint the bathroom, our columns and our doors, but I'm waiting until the first of May to start working again.

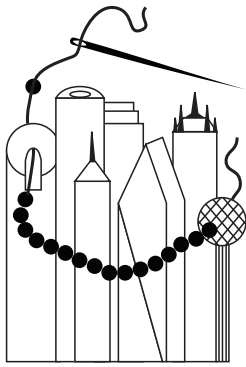

Let's hope that you've been having more fun than I have.
